Staff Children at Logos

LPCS

Adopted: 10/12/26

Logos Public Charter School values families and strives to maintain a family-friendly workplace. We also recognize that many staff members have children who attend Logos. When staff members' children are enrolled at Logos, employees are expected to maintain appropriate professional boundaries during the workday. Staff members should not supervise their own children while performing their job duties, and their children should not be present or within earshot of meetings or conversations involving other students or confidential student information. This is especially important to protect student privacy and maintain compliance with FERPA.

Children of staff members who are not enrolled at Logos may not accompany a parent to work or remain in an office, classroom, meeting, or other work/play area while the employee is working. A staff member may spend time with their child during an established break or lunch period, provided it does not interfere with school operations or student supervision.

We appreciate our staff helping us maintain a welcoming, family-friendly environment while also protecting student confidentiality and ensuring professional responsibilities remain the priority during the workday.
